

MAN OF MYSTERY STIRS SENATORS

Congressman Palmer Tells How
Some One Impersonated
Him Over Telephone.

The Senate lobby committee, having had its time indefinitely extended by the Senate, will endeavor to probe to the bottom of an amazing story of how an unidentified man tried to "bump" Wall Street.

Last night, the committee was told by Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, how an unidentified man, representing himself to be Mr. Palmer, has repeatedly telephoned to the committee and to the Senate, and made advances relative to employing a special counsel in the United States district court proceedings and to head of the Senate committee on the subject of the mysterious embezzlement of the United States.

Just who the mysterious embezzler is has not been disclosed. Ledyard, who has been in the United States district court proceedings, and when unable to get an interview with the man alleging himself to be Palmer, arranged an interview with a representative of the man, calling himself Palmer. The engagement was filled by Edward C. Lauterbach, who, according to testimony, was urged by others for special attorney for the United States.

Lauterbach, according to Palmer, alleged that Lauterbach assumed to talk for several prominent people in the House, including Speaker Clark.

The story told by Palmer astonished the committee, and it will call Ledyard and probably a number of New York financiers, including George F. Baker, of the First National Bank of New York; Paul D. Cravath and Francis Lynde Stetson, attorneys; and Charles Steele, of Morgan & Co.; also David Lamar, a Wall Street operator, whose name has been brought into the matter. Lauterbach and Congressman Rondon, on the stand last night, denied doing and statements imputed to them by Judge Lovett. Lauterbach denied he had ever boasted of influence with Congressmen, or had tried to get employment by big financial interests on the strength of alleged influence at the capital. He testified that all he had done was to seek to restore himself in the good graces of Morgan & Co., relations having been impaired because of the fact he had been on friendly terms with Lamar, an operator who was usually on the bear side of the street.

Lauterbach admitted he had talked with various financiers and attorneys about his restoration to good relations with Morgan & Co., and had made casual reference to the desire to investigate things here and there, but against big concerns.

ANACOSTIA LIKES NEW DISTRICT HEADS

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU.

ANACOSTIA, D. C., JUNE 27.—Suburban residents are satisfied with the choice of Frederick L. Siddons and Oliver P. Newman for Commissioners of the District, and many expressions of commendation over their nominations have been heard here. Although neither one was endorsed by any civic association in this section, the care shown by the President in naming them, and the records of the two men led suburban residents to consider the selections as promising reform in District affairs.

President Charles R. Burr, of the Anacostia Citizens' Association, said he is satisfied that the President has made a wise and careful choice. President S. E. Snyder, of the Handicapped Citizens' Association, declared that if the President's interest in District affairs is maintained by the men he has named a sound, non-sectarian, and progressive government for the District is certain.

The vestry of the Emmanuel P. E. parish has closed the deal for the purchase of the home here of George O. Watson, a Washington banker, for the occupancy of the Rev. and Mrs. W. O. Car Room, Jr., the former having been selected as the new rector of the parish.

Nathaniel R. Harnish has bought the house owned by the Branson family in Maple View avenue.

Paul Garvey, eight years old, son of Policeman D. J. Garvey, of 1236 Pleasant street, was hurt by a stone thrown by a playmate. The scalp was lacerated.

The Anacostia Baptist Church Sunday school went to Glen Echo today on an excursion. The Sunday school of the Congress Heights M. E. church will go to the same resort on Tuesday for its annual picnic.

Miss Annie Hingley entertained a company of friends last evening at her home, 233 Mt. View place, in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Harnish, whose marriage was a late event in Troy, N. Y., and who have come here to live.
